Your Side and Hornsby Council's Sector Support will be hosting the Home Care Technology Summit, our first in-person event for 2023. You will learn how technology can enable better care delivery and its important role to transition to the new In-Home Aged Care program.

Back to basics: building high-performing and secure IT systems

Rupert Taylor-Price, Vault Cloud

Adopting new technology: a Culture Change

Simon Heaysman, Hayylo

Technology Is Not An Intervention: Realising the Digital Transformation Promise

Merlin Kong, Kiah Consulting

Case study: Keep on stepping, fumbling and learning together as we transform

Peter Devine, Byron Shire Respite Service

Upskilling staff: Micro credentials in Digital Skills

Sally Browner, Institute of Applied Technology

Audience:

CEOs, CIOs, Board Members, Executive & Leaders from In Home Aged Care providers, responsible for compliance, risk, IT, Clinical care, customer care, legal or finance, who will be leading and implementing technological change.

Learning Outcomes:

Designed to provide practical examples and strategies, participants will:

- gain knowledge about the key IT requirements of secure and efficient systems.
- increase their understanding about what the digital transformation of their organisation would entail and ideas of where to start.
- Connect with a range of IT solution providers at our networking lunch.

Home Care Technology Summit

Your Digital Transformation: Taking the first steps

Rupert Taylor-Price, Vault Cloud

Rupert founded Vault Cloud in 2012, driven by his strong desire to improve citizens' lives through government. He has a long history of handling sensitive data, stemming from his eight years as Chief Executive Officer at JN Solutions. While at JN Solutions, Rupert developed a world-leading SaaS (Software as a Service) Information Management Platform for the Australian Government, which provided extensive support to the community services sector.

Merlin Kong, Kiah Consulting

Merlin is the age services practice lead at Kiah with a focus on supporting the age services sector with their innovation, digital transformation, and service design needs. Prior to this, Merlin designed, started up and managed ACCPA's innovAGEING national age services innovation network—growing this from a 35 people to thriving community of almost 4,000 people.

Sally-Anne Browner, Institute of Applied Technology

Sally is a former executive turned passionate high school teacher turned technology education enthusiast. Over the last 10 years, she has been innovating in the tech space as the General Manager of Coder Academy, helping to found and grow the Indigenous-owned training organization, Goanna Education, and now she is the Senior Manager of Operations for the Institute of Applied Technology Digital.

Simon Heaysman, Haylo

Simon is the Co-Founder and Head of Partnerships and Growth at Haylo, the only service platform purpose built for care. Simon is a passionate healthcare innovator, public speaker and writer of the Breaking Healthcare newsletter. Simon also hosts the Haylo Insights series and is a sector media contributor.

Peter Devine, Byron Shire Respite

Peter is the General Manager of Byron Shire Respite Service Inc. Peter sits in the founder's chair and has a background in Anthropology, Financial Management with Wall Street Investment Firms, Executive Board Positions, Aged Care, Teaching & Curriculum development for ESL students, Governance, Adaptive Leadership, Digital Transformation and Community Program Development/Management. Peter believes in proper financial management/oversight to increase service delivery outputs, that being said, people are at the heart of his purpose.
